We collaborate with my esteemed friend and business partner, Peter Davison, who excels in analytical consulting. Peter brings a wealth of experience in retail, having begun his career at Tesco and later at the Co-op where he held various positions, including managing individual stores, serving as an Area Manager, and eventually becoming a Regional Manager for the Co-op in Southern UK.

Peter's remarkable skills and leadership led to a role as Managing Director for an $80 million retail and wholesale operation in the British Virgin Islands. After a successful stint in the Caribbean, he returned to the UK and joined a prominent Retail Space Planning Software company, where he spent eight years assisting various retailers worldwide in optimising their space planning and product strategies to unlock their business potential.
